"In dissensione nulla salus conspicitur." Caesar.
"If we pay a proper regard to truth, we shall find it necessary not only to condemn our friends upon some occasions, and commend our enemies, but also to commend and condemn the same persons, as different circumstances may require: for as it is not to be imagined, that those who are engaged in great affairs, should always be pursuing false or mistaken measures, so neither is it probable that their conduct can at all times be exempt from error." Polybius.
"Neither the law of Christianity nor of Reason requires us to prostrate our national independence, freedom, property and honor at the feet of proud, tyrannical oppressors." Address of Rev. Dr. David Osgood, May, 1798.
"Watch those ungrateful sould who murmur about taxation and oppression-the burdens of government and religion. They have fellowship with our enemies. They are traitors to God and Christianity." Address by the Rev. Dr. Elijah Parish, July 4, 1799.
"As citizens, we ought with one heart to cleave to and support our own government. It is a government of our own forming, and administered by men of our own choice." Sermon by Rev. Jedidiah Morse, May 9, 1798.

DIEU ET MON DROIT.

CONVERSATION

QUI EUT LIEU CES JOURS DERNIERS ENTRE UN

CANADIEN DE LA CAMPAGNE

ET UN

CANADIEN DE LA VILLE.

Le Canadien de la ville—Bon jour, mon ancien ami—C'est nouveau de te voir—Qu'est-ce qui t'amène en ville?

Le Canadien de la Campagne—Tu dis vrai que c'est rare de me voir en ville, car voilà longtems que je suis venu ici et tu ne m'y aurois pas encore vu, si nos gens n'étoient pas démontés de cinquante nouvelles qui courent. Car vois-tu, chacun fait son histoire, de sorte que personne n'y entend rien, et cependant tout le monde est dans la terreur, et moi j'ai pris le parti de venir en ville m'instruire de la vérité de ce qui se passe et qui cause tous ces mouvemens. Mais toi qui vois beaucoup de monde instruit, pourrois-tu m'apprendre la cause de tout cela?

CHAP. IV.

John Henry—Elijah Parish.

LET the children of Columbia beware of false prophets which come in sheep's clothing, for it is written, Ye shall know them by their fruits.

2 Now it came to pass, that a certain man, whose surname was Henry, came before James, the chief governor, and opened his mouth, and spake unto him, saying,

3 Lo! If thou will give unto me two score and ten thousand pieces of silver, then will I unfold unto thee the witchcraft of Britain, that thereby thy nation may not be caught in her snares.

4 And James said unto him, Verily, for the good of my country I will do this thing.

5 And immediately the man Henry opened his mouth a second time, and said,

6 Lo! the lords and counsellors of Britain have made a covenant with me, and have promised me many pieces of gold if I would make a league with the provinces of the east that they might favour the king, and long and faithfully have I laboured in their cause.

7 But they deceived me, even as they would deceive the people of Columbia, for their promises are as the idle wind that passeth by, which returneth not again.

8 And, when he had gotten the silver into his own

266 Swanson, Neil H.
The Perilous Fight being a little known and much abused chapter in our national History in our Second War of Independence and a true narrative of The Battle of Godly Wood and The Attack on Fort McHenry more suitably described as The Battle of Baltimore the whole constituting the first complete account of the skillful, and successful defense of that city by Sam'l Smith then in his 62nd year, against Lord Wellington's Invincibles supported by a powerful fleet, together with a Refutation of those Traducers of American Courage who have made small of the citizen soldiers who, lately defeated and routed, marched again to face the conquerors of Napoleon in superior numbers in the open field To Which is Added some notice of the circumstances attending the Writing of The Star Spangled Banner with particular reference to the remarkable errors of those who, wholly without warrant of fact, having belittled the significance of our national anthem by describing it as "a song nobody can sing, about an event of no importance."
